INSTRUCTIONS TO THE SUPERVISOR

Teaching demands knowledge as well as skill development as in any field it demands practice. As such, practice cannot be substituted for anything in teaching. We understand that knowledge of subject is important but skill is all the more important. We may not teach everything, but whatever little we teach it should be taught with effectiveness.

Education is context specific and content dependent. Context refers to the settings or surroundings in which education takes place. A student teacher is faced with the existing but challenging task of assimilating a variety of context very rapidly when embarking upon teaching practice.

A teacher should possess several areas of expertise:

- ◆ Academic subject knowledge.
- ◆ Pedagogical knowledge.
- ◆ Effective interpersonal behavior
- ◆ Enthusiasm and motivating skills.
- ◆ Understanding of social relationship in schools and classrooms.
- ◆ Skill for developing curricula and schemes of work.
- ◆ Organizational skills.
- ◆ Understanding of how students learn.
- ◆ Awareness of current trends of the subject and teaching of the subject.
- ◆ Management skills: learning communication and monitoring.
- ◆ Skills in assessment, education and record keeping.

Note :

1. All the entries in the Teaching profile format shall be in the mentorship own hand writing only.
2. Each Teacher Trainee has to take 15 lessons in each method, under the mentors of Senior School Assistant.
